INSPIRING • ENGINEERING • INNOVATION

The Scoop Stretcher is a specialized diver rescue and emergency transfer device designed for the safe lifting and transportation of injured personnel, particularly those with suspected spinal, pelvic, or limb injuries.

Its ergonomic split design allows the stretcher to be separated into two halves and gently positioned under the casualty using a scissor-type closing motion, minimizing movement and reducing the risk of further injury.

Engineered from high-strength aluminum alloy, it provides an optimal balance of lightweight handling, durability, and operational efficiency, making it ideal for offshore, marine, and emergency rescue applications.
